WE NOMINATE

Francis Hugh Liffiton, 42-year old pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, the tenth clergyman to serve a distinguished parish dating back to 1847, and an "outspoken cleric" strongly reminiscent of the leaders of yesteryear whose devotion and vision helped shape present-day Princeton and her institutions. This Sunday morning, as the Second Church becomes "St. Andrew's of Princeton" and rededicates its refurbished sanctuary (which in a very real sense represents a significant architectural restoration), the eyes of this community will be upon this third-generation New Zealander.

Over the past 40 months, ever since Liffiton was designated pastor, the Second, known to many as "Woodrow Wilson's church," has struggled realistically and conscientiously with problems besetting a parish in an area of unbridled growth. The catalyst in the development of the three-church Princeton Presbyterian Commission, this church, under Liffiton's leadership and with a membership approximating 650, voted in 1964 to remain on its Nassau-Chambers corner rather than move to the 10-acre countryside tract given by Mr. Dean Mathey and this past month enthusiastically changed its name to St. Andrew's — a change first contemplated some 15 years ago by Pastor Emeritus William L. Tucker.

Aware of the adhesion and uplift inherent in continuity in the midst of change, Liffiton, whose family was settling in New Zealand about the time 12 Princetonians were organizing the Second Church, has done a remarkable job of welding together the traditions of service and his parish's aspirations for decades to come. He has, for instance, followed every detail of the $102,000 refurbishing, and sees his parish as a team: "We run it together, and everyone pulls together. My job," he feels, "is to preach and to tend to my congregation, while our meetings, in which I participate as a member and never as an overseer, are run by effective chairmen."

It was his concern for "pastoral counselling," an "untilled field" on the North and South Islands "Down Under," that brought Liffiton to the United States after four years of parish duty. In 1959-60, on a fellowship reserved for men of high promise from overseas, he earned a Bachelor of Divinity degree in New York City's Union Theological Seminary, worked closely with unfortunates committed to public institutions, and enrolled in Princeton Theological Seminary in 1960 following a summer assignment in Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia. In 1961, upon the receipt of his Master's in Theology, he was "tapped" by the Second Church.

Liffiton, the son of an Episcopalian and a World War II veteran with service in both the New Zealand ground and air forces, turned his back on a successful start in the insurance business to "answer the call of the church." A graduate of the University of Otaigo, and superbly trained in the Theology Hall of the Presbyterian Church of New Zealand, he is a prodigious worker and is so completely absorbed in the demands of his parish that he finds it impossible to "take a day off." Active in the programs of the Princeton Pastors' Association, he is currently a member of the governing boards of the Princeton YMCA and the Westminster Foundation and is chairman of the Committee on Evangelism of the 250,000-member New Jersey Synod.

For ever seeking to shape his daily work in the image of St. Andrew, the exemplar of "the outreach and concern which it behooves all Christians to follow"; for believing that all churches working together can help this community attain its tremendous potential; for generating the kind of excited reactions that lead to constructive action; he is Town Topics' nominee as

JAMES STEWART AND FRIENDS: He was on stage, Mr. Stewart was, the night in 1930 that McCarter Theatre opened. But he was only a lanky sophomore and he was buried deep in the chorus of the Triangle Club show, "The Golden Dog." He is shown here—in the center, need we add—in a scene from a subsequent Triangle show, "The Tiger Smiles."

35 CANDLES

McCarter Celebrates. When theatre people sit down to play "I remember," it's never a game of dust and faded roses. It's "I took this picture of Kit Cornell in front of the Princeton Inn. She was here with 'The Barretts,' you know." And "We had this live goat tied up backstage for two days, and if you don't think McCarter had an aroma!" Or the man who wanted to pay — but we'll come to him later.

McCarter Theatre raised its curtain for the first time on February 20, 1930. It will mark those 35 years this Saturday, February 20, 1965, with the warmth and flair and happy reminiscence that theatre folk always seem to have when there's an occasion to commemorate.

The theatre was built in 1929. It cost $450,000 — a breathless sum in those days — and it was financed with $150,000 from Triangle Club and the rest from various donors, of whom Thomas N. McCarter, Class of '88, was the most generous.

Pray May I? Designed by the Baltimore architect D. K. Este-Fischer Jr. (Class of '13), McCarter is — well, Gothic. Sort of. It has a tower because money was running out and building up is cheaper than building out. The tower contains the dressing rooms, and for 35 years, actors have cursed the eight flights of stairs they have to climb if they've got a room at the top.

On the blank brick walls, Mr. Este-Fischer sketched, in brick, the arched outlines of Gothic-style windows, and these cathedral-like arches have been responsible for the confusion of many an out-of-town owner.

"I was locking up the theatre one afternoon," recalls Mrs. Marguerite McAneny, who is almost "Mrs. McCarter," "and a man drove up, got out of his car and said, 'Please don't lock up yet — I want to pray.' He pushed past me into the theatre, and I thought, 'Well, no reason why he shouldn't'.

"Pretty soon he was out again. 'You didn't tell me this wasn't a church!' he exploded." Mrs. McAneny shrugged. "Well, he never asked me."

She also remembers the young graduate student who ran into the lobby and shouted to Mrs. Mac, who was behind the box-office wicket, "When does the next train leave for New York?"

McCarter People. Mention of "Mrs. Mac" brings to mind three Princeton residents who have been closely identified with McCarter, right from the first. Mrs. McAneny has served the theatre in almost every capacity, usually with titles like "General Manager." She retired only last year to direct, full-time, the University's theatre collection.

B. Franklin Bunn, as graduate treasurer of Triangle, ran the theatre for both Triangle and the University for many years. Peg Wangler, with a cast of backers and the consent of Princeton President Harold W. Dodds, served as McCarter impresario from 1934 to 1942.

and it was she who took the picture of Kit Cornell outside the Princeton Inn.

Although it was referred to as Triangle's theater, McCarter always belonged to the University. Triangle leased it without fee, and the Triangle cast and the University acted shared equal billing in gold embroidery on the giant red curtain.

And "giant" is the word. McCarter has one of the largest stages in the east with a 90-foot grid and a proscenium opening of 40 feet — very wide indeed. It can take on anything, from the New York City Ballet to the Westminster Choir, en masse.

For Town and Gown. From its earliest years, McCarter has been a community, all-purpose theatre, in spite of its University backing. In the '30's, McCarter was almost on Broadway.

"The Theatre Guild was here several times," Mrs. Wangler says, and she opens her big scrapbooks to show just how often. "Here is Pauline Lord in 'Ethan Frome' — isn't she lovely? And Gertrude Lawrence! How I do remember her in 'Susan and God!' We had the Abbey Players with Barry Fitzgerald in three plays, including 'Playboy of the Western World' and one night, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt came to McCarter to see 'Claudia.'"

John Garfield, the Humphrey Bogart of his day, was idolized by the undergraduates. Mrs. Wangler recalls. Almost mobbed at the Princeton railroad station.

Several McCarter presentations — including "You Can't Take It With You" and "Room Service," — were world premieres, and of course the most famous was "Our Town," which had its opening in McCarter on January 22, 1938.

But in the Summer, No. Meanwhile, McCarter was used for concerts and the productions of Princeton Community Players, but with the war, the lights began to dim. In the summer of 1942, with everyone confined to Princeton by gas rationing and the University going full blast with war programs, a cooperative venture called the Princeton Playgoers kept things lively. Paul Robeson's "Othello" was presented that summer, and Flora Robson's "Elizabeth the Queen" and Jimmie Savo.

But summer has been fateful for McCarter. Between '47 and '52, there were summer shows (Mae West in "Diamond Lil"), with fans blowing across two blocks and "cool" white covers on the seats, but it was no good, and the cost of air-conditioning was out of the question.

In the '53-'54 season, Triangle's lease ran out, and instead of renewing it, the University decided to try for profit. Richard Pleasant (Class of '32) and Isadora Bennett, professional impresarios, moved into the scene, and began to bring to McCarter an international flavor that has remained to this day. Marcel Marceau, the dancers of Bali, the Yugoslav ballet, all came during the Bennett and Pleasant years.

It was a time of plays, too, with the touring companies of "The Chalk Garden" and "Hatful of Rain" and of wearily unsuccessful premieres like "Dancing in the Chequered Shade."

Most of these premieres either died before they got to Broadway, or expired soon after," comments William Lockwood Jr. of the present McCarter staff, "and after a while, so many bombs just scared the audiences away."

Sabbatical Mr. Lockwood himself was a McCarter phenomenon of the late 50's—a student impresario. As a partner in "Dana Productions," he brought to McCarter, while he was still an undergraduate, Gielgud's "Ages of Man," Hal Holbrook in "Mark Twain Tonight" and others.

By the end of the 50's, McCarter was beginning to show its years. Even Triangle had to bring in its own switchboards and the splintery stage was a scandal among ballet dancers.

And so, in 1958, McCarter took a deserved sabbatical. Over a period of two years, the stage was replaced, the old curtain discarded and a new one made (but with the same Triangle and University seals, carefully embroidered by hand), new carpeting laid and banners hung at the sides to conceal new lighting equipment and help the acoustics. It was not until 1963 that the theatre finally got its much-needed switchboard. It cost $27,000 and it was a Christmas present from the University.

Even during these remodeling years, McCarter was never wholly dark. "This is Goggle" was the last (1958) pre-Broadway fiasco. From then until 1960, when the "Greater for the Performing Arts" concept was successfully introduced, McCarter was, as before, a community theatre.

ELECTION JAMS HALLS

In PHS Campaign. The traffic problem in Princeton High School corridors took a turn for the worse this week. Campaigners for the Roaring Pennies and for Sandy's Safari party buttonholed voters and stalled traffic with their posters.

The annual Student Administration Day election will be held Friday. The two parties, headed by seniors Penny Savage and Sandy Northrop, have presented their planks to the student body in assembly. The winning plank will go before the Borough Board of Education on March 23.

Working for the Roaring Pennies are Lucy Foglesong, Daurell Golden, John Provenzano, Gil Turner, Dine Mc-Donald, Scott Rohrer, Lorraine Duthie, Bob Linder and Bill Walsland.

The Pennies' platform includes "more equal" representation in the Student Council, an bulletin boards, biology for freshmen who excell in science, advanced courses in physics and chemistry, re-establishment of the senior lunch room and a special senior weekend.

ELECTIONEERING: Peggy Anderson (center) campaigns for Friday's Student Administration Day elections at Princeton High School. Onlookers are Terry Auletta (right) and Patty Hurley. The clashing parties this year are The Roaring Pennies vs. Sandy's Safari, headed by seniors Penny Savage and Sandy Northrop. (Staff Photo)

On the Safari team are Lesley Bush, Penny Edwards, Gary Elion, Joe McKee, Carl Burns, Sally Foglesong, Tim Barron, Frances Strayer and Bob Hilton.

The Safaris call for resurfacing the track, night lights for football, outside clock, juke box, coke machines, candy in the Students' Exchange, a trampoline, all-school field day, refreshment stand, tiger uniform, sweaters for boy cheerleaders, public address system repair in the boy's gym and a senior day.

BUS ON MERCER?

Township Hopes Not. Suburban Transit would like to expand its bus service, and having laid its requests before Borough Council last week, it presented them to Township Committee Monday.

However, no representative of Suburban Transit was present, and Acting Mayor William L. Wilson (Mayor Carl C. Schafer was there, but had laryngitis) suggested that Committee wait and see exactly what Suburban Transit has in mind.

The bus company, said Administrator Joseph R. Nini, would like to start one Princeton-Trenton route along Highway 206 and another along Mercer and Princeton Pike, in addition, the company wants a Princeton - Hightstown run down Washington Road.

Where these routes travel through the Borough, the matter is still pending, Mr. Nini said. Lawrence Township has approved the Mercer Road route where it would traverse Lawrence.

Township engineers are reluctant to approve a Mercer Road bus route because of the narrow bridge across Stony Brook, a bridge which has already caused many accidents. Mr. Nini also said that he, at least, thinks that a Washington Road bus route would be unwise because of traffic problems there.

Road at Issue. Longridge Builders, Inc., developers of "Point of Woods" on Herrentown Road, appealed to Committee to rescind a Planning Board directive. The Planning Board approved the Longridge plans last week, but told the developers they had to pave one of their proposed roads, "Woods Way," all the way to Autumn Hill.

This means they would have to extend the paving 361 feet beyond their own development, and they regard this as unfair. Precedents exist, however, for requiring a developer to pave roads outside his own boundary lines, Mr. Nini said.

Some residents of the area don't like the idea of the paved "through" road either, and one gloomy letter-writer asked, "Is there no end to the urge to remove trees and pave roads?"

Committee set the problem aside in order to obtain more information from the Planning Board.

One of the landowners who is selling property to Longridge for "Point of Woods" is James Labey, 351 Herrontown Road, and Mr. Labey has problems of his own. He maintained again Monday night, as he had last month, that he had been unfairly assessed for the first portion of

FAMILY TERRORIZED

By Relative in Home. Martha and Anthony Keris, both about 50, and Wayne Kalinowski, 14, of Trenton, were terrorized for several hours at gunpoint early Saturday morning by Miss Keris' younger brother, Joseph Keris, 26, of 618 Hoffman Avenue Trenton. The incident occurred at the Keris farm house on Conovera Road, Dutch Neck, across the road from the home of Matt Mathes, West Windsor Township police chief.

Before he was finally subdued by State Police with the aid of tear gas, Keris fired at least seven shots from a shotgun while chasing the terrified trio around the house. At one point, Keris telephoned State Police and told them he has already killed one man and was going to kill more. He threatened to shoot anyone who tried to stop him.

Miss Keris told police her younger brother had arrived at the house shortly before midnight. It was apparent he had been drinking, she said. She added that her brother was angered when their father, who had died a year ago, left the farm to her instead of his son.

After young Kalinowski managed to slip into the cellar and escape from a broken window—he was the last to flee—State Police from Princeton, Hightstown and New Brunswick stations filled the house with tear gas. Keris gave up quietly when State Police sergeant Sidney Spiegel entered the house, now bathed in flood lights from the Princeton Junction fire company.

Keris was sent to Mercer County Jail to await a hearing before West Windsor Magistrate A. C. Reeves Hicks. He was charged with threat to kill.

FIRE GUTS STORE

In Shopping Center. A fire which started a few minutes after 10 Saturday evening in the rear of the Sharlin Lighting Studio, Princeton Shopping Center, gutted the interior of the store before it was finally extinguished almost two hours later by members of the fire department. Offices to the rear and stores on either side of the studio suffered varying degrees of smoke and water damage.

Two firemen from Hook and Ladder were bitten carrying animals from the adjacent Noah's Ark Pet Shop. Vincent L. Ross Sr. was bitten by a honey bear and auxiliary firemen Arthur Yard by a monkey. They were taken to Princeton Hospital, treated and released.

The only casualties in the extensive evacuation were five canaries who perished. Most of the animals were in cages and placed outside the store in the cold. One fireman, however, reportedly had to chase a frightened kinkajou around the store before he was able to carry it to safety.

Chief Patrick McMannmon reports firemen were hampered in their efforts by the thick smoke and by the absence of a rear exit from the lighting store. The fire was reportedly fed by piles of excelsior that Pallor was the chief product of the past week's weather, typical mid-winter fare for these parts: high readings in the 40's, contrasted by a low of 21 and an inch or so of snow on Sunday.

WHERE YOU THERE? Thirty-five years ago, the first professional play to be staged in McCarter was Sheridan's "The Rivals," and on Saturday it will open the theatre's spring drama series. Above are Robert Summer (left) as Thomas and the bewigged director, Mario Siletti, as Fag. (Chachowski Photo)

News Of The THEATRES

OEPNING NIGHT!

"The Rivals," Richard Brinsley Sheridan's 18th century masterpiece of wit and manners, "The Rivals," will open McCarter Theatre's spring series of comedies on Saturday at 8.

A matinee will be given Sunday at 3, and subsequent performances Thursday and Friday, February 25 and 26.

Directed by Mario Siletti, "The Rivals" will feature Ruby Holbrook as Mrs. Malaprop; James Tripp as Captain Absolute, Emery Battis as Sir Anthony Absolute and Clarence Felder as Sir Lucius O'Trigger. All these players have been seen before on McCarter's stage.

Newcomers will be MacIntyre Dixon as Bob Acres, Saundra MacDonald as Lucy the Maid, and Gregory Abels as Faulkland. Barbara Caruso, as Lydia Languish, and Ronnie Claire Edwards as Julia, are returning to Princeton after a hiatus of several seasons.

TO DANCE "SYLPHIDES"

Next, for Regionals. Four ballets, including "Les Sylphides," will be presented on Sunday March 14 at 3 p.m. by the dancers of the Princeton Regional Ballet in McCarter Theatre.

Choreographed by Lila Bruner, ballet mistress for the Princeton Regional Ballet, "Les Sylphides" will be staged according to the original choreography of Michael Fokine. Music is by Chopin.

Other ballets on the program will be Stravinsky's "Petrouchka," Aaron Copland's "Scaps Along the River" and "Masquerade," to music by Mozart.

BOGART BONUS

"The Big Sleep." As if Bogart in Retrospect weren't enough, McCarter has signed up for "The Big Sleep" which is being billed as a "Bogart Bonus." The 1946 film will be shown this Thursday at 8 in McCarter.

Next in the Hitchcock series will be "The 39 Steps," booked for Monday at 8. This is the original version of John Buchan's famous thriller, the one that stars Robert Donat and Madeleine Carroll. Vintage: 1936.

Getting back to Bogey, "The Big Sleep" is one of the series that starred Bogart and Lauren Bacall, and it had a script by three writers, one of whom seems to have been William Faulkner. The original was Raymond Chandler's private-eye novel.

PLAYHOUSE

36 Hours (opens Friday). This spy-and-counterspy thriller concerns the Allies' D-Day plans, speculating on the possibility that the Nazi high command might have found out about them.

James Garner is the U. S. intelligence officer who is caught on his way to Lisbon after a London briefing on invasion plans. His captor, an American-born Nazi psychiatrist played by Rod Taylor, cooks up a scheme to get the crucial information. While Garner is apparently drugged his hair is dyed gray and he wakens to find himself in what is apparently an American Army hospital. Told that he has been the victim of amnesia for the past six years, he is encouraged to discuss the past with his "psychiatrist." He is centered along by an English-speaking nurse Eva Marie Saint who has been freed from a concentration camp on the condition that she will cooperate.

The story moves along with

lots of suspense, combined with excellent acting.

THE GARDEN

World Without Sun (thru. Tues.). This is an undersea documentary, produced and directed by Jacques-Yves Cousteau. It continues from the point where his "The Silent World" of eight years ago left off.

A group of men live for a month under the Red Sea without returning to the surface. The scenes in which they are shown adapting to an entirely new mode of living, coping with the terrible sense of isolation that is as frightening in its way as encounters with sea monsters are more interesting than science fiction.

The picture is full of unique sights. The diving submarine called "Denise," its underwater garage, chess games underwater and the photographs at 1,000 feet below the surface where neither man nor cameras have ventured before.

The Finest Hours (Opens Wed., Feb. 24) The life and times of Winston Churchill are recorded in documentary fashion, using both color photography of Churchill's homes and old newsreels in black-and-white.

Once the early years of Churchill as soldier-adventurer and First Lord of the Admiralty are described, the film becomes a history of the global conflict of World War II with Sir Winston at the center of events. The major battles are covered from Dunkirk to Stalingrad, right down to the liberation of France and Italy.

THE PRINCE

Strange Bedfellows (starts Friday) Gina Lollobrigida, Rock Hudson and Gig Young are cast in the leads of this comedy about a married couple.

The scene is London. Young is a high-powered American publicity man working up an image for oil executive Rock Hudson. Lollobrigida is the wife Hudson deserted. A violent pizza thrower, she busies herself with kooky causes, among them a project to reenact Lady Godiva.

Lots of laughs—adult style.

A cake with 35 candles, the cake said to be kingsized, the candles undefined except by number, will be on the McCarter stage after the opening performance of "The Rivals" on Saturday.

The occasion, of course is the McCarter 35th anniversary, and the open-night audience is invited to remain, meet the cast and watch while the candles are blown out.

By coincidence (oh, come now, McCarter!) "The Rivals" was the first professional production ever to play the theatre. Minnie Madern Fiske brought her travelling players to McCarter with the Sheridan comedy on March 12, 1930.

IT'S NEW To Us

I GET THE MESSAGE

"Hello, Dolly!" That's the song at Western Union these days. The new Princeton office at 29 Witherspoon Street has a great big box full of six-inch dolls, the sassy stuffed kind with shaggy hair, a cheerful cartoon face and a persistently happy disposition.

What, you may ask, is Western Union doing with dolls? Ah, this question means you have not heard, but are about to, of the Dollygram.

Got a sick friend? A pal about to celebrate his birthday? A kid sister ready to graduate from nursing school? Somebody you'd just like to say "Hi" to?

Then come on down, as the saying goes. Choose the stubby doll that suits your occasion. We have one that says "Have a happy day," a sort of all-purpose Dolly.)

Pay $2 plus the cost of a telegram, and your doll is on her way. These are cute little fellows — each one slightly different from the other. One, for example, has coyly drooping eyelashes. Another is as sparkling as a spring morning. Each one is brisk enough to send to any age, even a girl who thinks dolls are for children. Wait'll she sees THIS one.

But — the scene changes. On a recent visit to W.U., we were taken to a mysterious locked cuboard. The magic key came out, and what do you think was inside?

Cigars. Yessir. You can now send 25 or 50 cigars by wire to that client who was so hard to impress. (No, dear, the cigars do not travel along the telegraph wire from here to Albuquerque. You order them here, and the Albuquerque agent takes them out of His locked case and gets them delivered.)

Your choice of White Owl, Invincible, Robert Burns Panatella, Gold Label Cedaroma or Gold Label Palmas, priced from $6 to $14, plus the cost of the wire. Around each box is a handsome, mauline - looking jacket (paneled study with pipe and leather books — that kind of thing). And the cigars are fresh because that locked cabinet is really a humidifier.

Your Valentine has probably found somebody else already, but Easter lies ahead and Mother's Day, so don't forget that Western Union sends candy by wire, too. (Whoever heard of sending cigars on Mother's Day? You send mother cigars at Christmas time.)

There in the W.U. office at 29 Witherspoon is a freezer, if you can believe it. A freezer, just like the kind you keep string beans in. Only at Western Union, it's candy, and the candy is not frozen, merely kept cool and fresh.

For $3, one pound. For $5, two pounds, plus your telegram. It's "Country Store" candy — chocolates from California, and it's shipped fresh and kept fresh.

Coming along later this spring at Western Union will be a new flat-rate wire: 15 words for only $5 cents, but don't telephone and expect these rates now. Negotiations are still in progress.

By the way, if you haven't received a wire lately you probably don't know that the old-fashioned pasted on tape is no longer used. Telegrams are now processed to look like a single "typed" sheet. There's more to progress than a fat little dolly with painted eyelashes.

A Lot of Words

Western Union has a modest enough office at 29 Witherspoon, but growth isn't always measured in square feet. In the case of Western Union, it's probably been measured in words.

Today, the Princeton office of Western Union is the fifth largest in the state, five times larger in volume of business done than the usual city of Princeton's size — 22,000 or so.

The reason, of course, is the presence of such giants as Educational Testing Service, McGraw-Hill and RCA. The number of words sent and received by these three alone would probably sustain Western Union if nobody ever sent another "Happy Birthday to You."

YEAH! YEAH!

And Madras. The "Yeah, yeah" top, known in Paris, where it originated, as the "ye, ye" top, has now reached Kesler and Bellis in Hopewell, and from there, who knows?

A "Yeah, yeah" top, for ignorant fathers in the class, is an all-orlon stretch sweater "one size fits all"). In the delicate nomenclature of the trade, it is called "figure molding" or "rib-hugging" and either one is sufficiently descriptive to give you the idea.

You buy it if you're 15 and daring. It's sleeveless with a modified turtle neck and you wear it, if mother will let you, above slacks or skirt, $4, in red, navy, black or white.

Younger sister, meanwhile, has chosen Kesler and Bellis' Madras shorts and a couple of those Madras wrap skirts. They come in sizes 7-12, and there are jackets with elastic waistbands and hoods. Jackets, $6; skirts, $7, bermudas, $4.

Mother is content, as well she might be, with a shrinkless acrylic shell in blue, white or yellow, woven with an irregular weave that gives a surprisingly, a soft texture. $3. Another shell in acetate jersey is white with cherry, powder be shown at the New Strand, Lambertville, this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Starring Anna Magnani, the film was Italy's first bid for recognition in the cinema world just after World War II. Sharing the bill is "Breathless," which fame to Jean-Paul Belmonde and director Jean-Luc Godard.

"Children of Paradise," an all-time film classic, will be on the screen Sunday through Tuesday. This is the first full showing of the 193-minute film in this country. "Last Weekend," the 1945 picture which won Academy awards for Ray Milland and director Billy Wilder, will be shown on Wednesday, February 24.

SLAPSTICK SPECIAL

Stars Three Stooges. The whoopin', hollerin', pie-in-the-eye Stooges will be on the screen at 3 p.m. this Tuesday in a special mid-winter Vacation show at the Garden.

It's New To Us

or black dots against its sleeveless form. $3. And the knit shell (acrylic) has close cables of white, pink or blue. Keeps its shape wonderfully.

If you like a true blouse, Ship 'n Shore provides a white one with a bib outlined in pink and decorated with pink and green embroidery. Kesler and Bellis' own is a rayon-cotton Harlequin pattern of pale green, apricot and yellow in shaggy-edged diamonds. Another K. and B. looks like dotted Swiss. The dots fall between clusters of posies.

If patterns are your hobby, look at this crepe-like acetate yardage with its yellow and gold lemons and pears, and the rayon-silk "Pie a Bac" with leaves in all shades of green against beige. A second "Pie a Bac" has stripes of gold and beige, and a tweedy look.

"Sheerdelite" is an all-cotton batiste with the tiniest pink carnations you ever saw.

SILK OR TWEED?

Sometimes Both. They appear together in at least one suit this spring at Mayme Mead (194 Nassau) from the looms of Davidow. It's a springy red-pink combination with a classic cut, little notches at the jacket's edge, tabs at the collar and a straight skirt. Again in blues or greens, light in weight, tweedy in texture.

But the straight skirt has to defend itself against the pleat and the "A". Look at Davidow's pale, pale yellow-grey wool whose Chanel jacket covers a pleated skirt, easy enough to take the longest stride. Under the jacket is a pale yellow crepe blouse with a tucked front.

Two sharp - edged double pleats spring from the skirt of a lovely dark silk print made by stirring together navy, royal and emerald. The jacket has a petal collar.

Townclife chooses the daffodil, brightest yellow on the spring scene, for a basket-weave wool whose silk blouse has sleeves just long enough to peek out below the jacket cuff. There's a tie.

Wear half-sizes? Look at Mayme Mead's pale lilac in a squared basketweave, or the brilliant turquoise, classic as can be.

Silk ensembles, on the dress side, combine navy, red and white in the traditional spring manner. Here's a cherry red silk with skirt on a camisole top, a navy overblouse with a fine red stripe and a red jacket with deep round collar and frog closing.

The "A" line skirt has been used for a navy faille ensemble with white silk overblouse dotted irregularly with navy. Jacket has a stand-away collar and four looped buttons.

Think it's two-piece? Look again. This dress has swirls of dark green over emerald, a cowl collar and back bow, and a blouson look that makes its flaring skirt seem separate.

Most dramatic ensemble of the year is Mead's black silk with wild white swoops like the swing of a flashlight on a black night. The white blouse reverses the scheme.

Bio-Wave
By Jheri Redding
what every woman should know about Bio-Wave
The Bio-Wave Permanent is an entirely new concept in permanent waving, based in the catalytic action of enzymes. Hair never becomes frizzy, brittle and dry, but possesses a uniformly soft, healthy appearance with amazing body and texture. The wave is non-explosive, non-toxic, non-sensitizing. had collected in the rear of the store.

In addition to the Pet Shop, Philip Farkouh, Inc., an oriental rug and linen shop, located on the right side of Sharlin's, and Lenhart and Company, located to the rear, sustained smoke and water damage.

The cause of the general alarm blaze is still being investigated. It was Princeton's first serious fire since a private home at 407 Prospect Avenue was damaged in December.

MISS DAVIS RESIGNS

Headmistress 22 Years. The resignation of Miss Shirley Davis, headmistress of Miss Fine's School since 1943, has been announced by the trustees of Princeton Day Schools.

Under the consolidation of Miss Fine's School and Princeton Country Day School, as the Princeton Day Schools, Miss Davis was to have served as assistant principal and teacher of French. Her resignation is effective September 1, 1965. She is in California on sabbatical leave.

Miss Davis is a graduate of Swarthmore College, with a master's degree from Middlebury College. "Having assumed the headmistresship at a time when development was sorely needed," the trustees said, "she devoted herself enthusiastically to the school.

"Her accomplishments on behalf of the school are known and appreciated by its many students, teachers, parents and friends. What is not so well known is the extent to which she always gave of herself, to the cause of the school, in large matters and in small, beyond any call of duty."

Endowment Gift. The choral rehearsal hall on the Princeton Day Schools' campus, The Great Road, has been endowed by David H. McAlpin of Pretty Brook Road in memory of the late Dr. Charles R. Erdman.

Development Chairman Amos Eno termed the gift "particularly appropriate," noting that Dr. Erdman, board chairman of Miss Fine's when it was incorporated in 1918, and later chairman emeritus, was a great patron of music.

Dr. Erdman was instrumental in permanent Westminster Choir College to move to Princeton and the establishment of the Columbus Boy Choir School here. He served as first board chairman of the choir college and as a board member of the Boychoir School. He was first president of the Princeton Symphony, and a long time director.

For more than 50 years, Dr. Erdman was present at the opening and closing of each school year to give the invocation and benediction. His two daughters, his son, five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren attended Miss Fine's School, the boys going on to Princeton Country Day after Miss Fine's lower school.

Mr. McAlpin, closely associated with Dr. Erdman in school affairs, served as vice-chairman under him and succeeded him as chairman.

SIX CARS DAMAGED

By Vandals. Borough Police received reports of vandalism last week from six car owners, four of whom said their cars had been damaged last Tuesday evening.

Philip A. Best, 406-A Devereux Avenue, and Howard Voughey, 223 Eisenhower Street, reported the tops of their convertibles slashed as they were parked behind Green Hall off Washington Road and William Street. Mr. Voughey said his car's turn indicator and wiper blades were also broken off.

Two more Tuesday night victims were Mrs. Jane Aronis of Trenton, wipers and turn indicator snapped off and cigarette lighter missing from her station wagon parked on Park Place—and Sheldon S. Myers of 11 Madison Street. Mr. Myers told police his car was parked in a garage behind Andy's Diner on Nassau Street. His windshield wipers were bent, he said, by someone who left a gas cap from another car resting on the trunk of his.

On Sunday, Dr. Thomas E. Shoemaker, 4 Greenholm, called to report several holes had been cut in the top of his convertible which had been parked in front of his home. The same day, a University student, Robert Lierman, 1901 Hall, said the radio antenna and an outside mirror had been broken off his car as it was parked in a lot behind the Cap and Gown Club. A rear snow tire had also been slashed, he said.

135 PRAY FOR SNOW

For PHS Ski Trip. Three Tiger buses will roll out of town at 5 a.m. Tuesday taking 128 Princeton High School students, their skis, toboggans and guitars, to North Conway, N.H.—provided there's snow.

The four-day ski holiday, talked about for two years, will be the first such venture for two-thirds of the boys and girls. Two ski enthusiasts are leading the project, Mrs. Betty Hewel, director of girls' athletics at the high school, assisted by Mrs. John Forel of the physical education department, a native of New Hampshire.

The list of chaperones, all skiers, includes Lorand Meray-Horvath, a member of the Hungarian ski team at the 1948 Olympics. Others are Donald Blankenbush, Pat Dale and Marianne Potocki, all of the faculty, and Mrs. Meray-Horvath.

To Preserve JFK's Room

This summer, when Reunion Hall on the Princeton University campus is demolished, the windows, floors and fireplace of the sitting room that John F. Kennedy shared with two Class of 1938 classmates will be carefully dismantled and marked for future assembly elsewhere.

As a freshman, the future President occupied the suite in the fall of 1938 with K. LeMoyne Billings and Ralph Horton Jr., the two central figures in the preservation project. He withdrew in December and transferred to Harvard.

According to Frederick Fox, recording secretary of the university, there are three possible places where the room might be re-constructed in whole or in part: (1) the class of 1939 Dormitory, in a student room or the faculty apartment; (2) in a classroom where politics or history is taught; (3) the Kennedy Memorial Library at Harvard.

PROTEINS AND YOUR SKIN

P.P.T. "S-77" is a hair and skin conditioner is made of pure Protein, and in pure form (before the addition of perfume) can be taken internally to a great advantage. In pure form it could be added to gravies, soups, and used to marinate meats, etc. Inasmuch as P.P.T. is naturally organic it can be used to FEED the skin and the hair as well as the body. It has been proved conclusively by scientist Cloca, Edwards and Herd that Proteins, topically applied to the skin and hair, readily become an integral part of the structure and rebuild (feed) either skin or hair and help restore it to a healthful normal condition.

It is upon these findings that we, Redken, base our "home cosmetics." The formulas presented in our booklet (which is yours for the asking at TAVERNWOOD) are for your own pleasure. All have been used and tested by many individuals of all ages for a period of about four years and have proven to be amazingly effective as we are certain they will be in your case. For example, here is our famous PROTEIN FACIAL, which is excellent for "leathery" skin and sunfanned skin. Also, it is one of the best stimulating facials that can be had:

2 teaspoons P.P.T. "S-77"
1 tablespoon powdered milk
2 tablespoons laundry starch (crush to powder, if lump starch)
1½ oz. apple cider vinegar

Mix to form light paste. Apply to face, leave on for 15 min., then remove with wash cloth and cool water.

The P.P.T. herein referred to, and used in ALL of our cosmetic formulations may be purchased in our TAVERNWOOD BEAUTY SALON for a nominal price in one-ounce containers. (to be continued next week)

Visit Taverwood at 69 Palmer Sq. West or call 924-3983, and from this day forward make Your Crowning Glory worthy of its name!

AXLE JACK SLIPS

Hightstown Man Killed. Ezra G. Burnison, 57, of 170 York Lane, Hightstown, was fatally injured at 10:30 a.m. Saturday when a car slipped off an axle jack and fell on him. Unconscious when police freed him, Mr. Burnison was pronounced dead on arrival at Princeton Hospital.

According to Police Chief Ernest L. Davison, Mr. Burnison was working under a car parked in his driveway. The driveway has a slight grade, Chief Davison said, and apparently the car moved, causing the axle jack to slip.

Mr. Burnison was employed by Sheet Metal Engineering Company, Trenton, and was also a detective with the Penn-Jersey Detective Agency.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Eleanor Burnison, and a daughter, Mrs. Walter Schroeder Jr. of Hightstown.

The service was held in Hightstown, the Rev. Frederick V. Mills of Hightstown Methodist Church officiating. Interment was in the Ewing Crematory.

THREE STUDENTS FINED

For Alcohol Possession. Three Princeton University students were fined Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. as minors in possession of alcohol in a public place. All are 20 years old.

Fined $15 and $10 court costs apiece were John F. Bonder and Henry C. Eames, both 317 Foulke Hall, and Daniel L. Rubinfeld, 51 Little Hall. The three were arrested by Borough Police February 7 on Prospect Avenue.

In traffic court, three drivers were each fined $12 for red light violations. They are Richard T. Evans, 25, Skillman; Mrs. Katherine M. Ellis, 69, 49 Witton Street, and Stoller G. Willis, 51, 17 Leigh Avenue. The latter two pleaded not guilty.

Paying two fines each were Peter M. Grosz, 38, Pretty Brook Road, and Alexander Rybalkin, 29, 793 Brunswick Pike. Mr. Grosz paid $30 for speeding and $15 as an unlicensed driver. Mr. Rybalkin paid $15 for operating an unregistered car and $15 as an unlicensed driver.

Other traffic violators were Mrs. Patricia J. Taylor, 34, 76 Quaker Road, who paid $19 for speeding; Chen N. Yang, 42, 204 Mercer Street, $10, no license in possession; Donald R. Larson, 29, 56 Stanworth Lane, unregistered car; and Boris Simpser, 26, 12 Graduate College, $10, late inspection.

The Department of Motor Vehicles announced the suspension for 30 days of the license of Theodore F. Lake 3rd, 33, Skillman. Mr. Lake was charged with speeding under the 60/70 excessive speed program.

He holds the Class of 1913 Foundation Chair of Political Economy at Princeton and directs the Econometric Research Project.

Boys and girls in junior and senior high school grades are invited to attend the lecture, and many of these students will have been briefed ahead of time through background information provided to the schools by the Junior Museum.

The Museum's explorations into music and acoustics will continue Sunday at 2 with a program on the horn by Richard Gerstenberger of Rutgers, director of the Princeton Community Band.

This Saturday's museum workshop will be "Musical Potpourri—from Alto to Zither."

DECLARATION OF CONSCIENCE

AGAINST THE WAR IN VIETNAM

The following statement, endorsed by the Catholic Worker, the War Resisters League, and the Committee for Nonviolent Action, is being circulated and signed all over the country. It has been signed by those members of the Princeton Fellowship of Reconciliation listed below. Anyone interested in signing this Declaration of Conscience may use the space below and mail to the War Resisters League, 5 Beekman St., Room 1025, New York, N. Y. 10038.

Because the use of the military resources of the United States in Vietnam and elsewhere suppresses the aspirations of the people for political independence and economic freedom;

Because inhuman torture and senseless killing are being carried out by forced armed, uniformed, trained and financed by the United States:

Because we believe that all peoples of the earth, including both Americans and non-Americans, have an inalienable right to life, liberty, and the peaceful pursuit of happiness in their own way; and

Because we think that positive steps must be taken to put an end to the threat of nuclear catastrophe and death by chemical or biological warfare, whether these result from accident or escalation —

We hereby declare our conscientious refusal to cooperate with the United States government in the prosecution of the war in Vietnam.

We encourage those who can conscientiously do so to refuse to serve in the armed forces and to ask for discharge if they are already in.

Those of us who are subject to the draft ourselves declare our own intention to refuse to serve.

We urge others to refuse and refuse ourselves to take part in the manufacture or transportation of military equipment, or to work in the fields of military research and weapons development.

We shall encourage the development of other nonviolent acts, including acts which involve civil disobedience, in order to stop the flow of American soldiers and munitions to Vietnam.

NOTE: Signing or distributing this Declaration of Conscience might be construed as a violation of the Universal Military Training and Service Act, which prohibits advising persons facing the draft to refuse service. Penalties of up to 5 years imprisonment, and/or a fine of $5,000 or provided. While prosecutions under this provision of the law almost never occur, persons signing or distributing this declaration should face the possibility of serious consequences.

A DISSENTER ON SCHOOL MERGER: Vito Gioia, meat cutter at Davidson's, believes the Township and the Borough would be ill-advised to consider merger of their school systems. For his reason, see below. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Are you in favor of a merger of the Borough and Township school systems?

Where asked: Around town.

Mrs. Irving Levey, 120 Prospect Avenue, housewife: Yes, I'm in favor of a merger because, first, we're a small town. Second, it would be cheaper and, third, it would mean a better educational system, overall that the divided one we now have.

Mrs. John Shy, 40 Pine Street, housewife: Yes, resoundingly so. Now that I have a child in junior high I know the classes aren't large enough to have a sufficient spread. I was out ringing doorbells for this last election.

Thomas Poole, 52 Mason Drive, advertising, Lever Brothers: Yes. The problem is more basically related to the high school. The Township is a sending district and, theoretically, has no control over the quality of the education. By that I don't mean to say the quality of the education is bad but I do think the Township should have a voice. Furthermore, it is my understanding that there are different levels of quality in the elementary and junior schools—that those from the Township are on a higher level than those in the Borough. If this is true, I think this inequality would tend to level off if the systems were unified.

Mrs. Jonah Wittenberg, 40 Deer Path, housewife: Yes, I think it would be an excellent idea. It would probably be less expensive all around and I think it's really only one area: both have a community of interests and it is artificial to maintain this barrier.

Alan Hendry, 271 Hawthorne Avenue, credit analyst: I think it would be beneficial in that it would probably reduce duplication of certain facilities. If you're going to have the same number of children going to school, there's bound to be some areas you can save under one system.

Mrs. John Leahner, 123 Valley Road, housewife: Yes, I am. I feel that as far as the children are concerned, it would benefit both the Borough and the Township. I think from a tax standpoint, it would help us in the Township. It's just ridiculous to have this separation when we can work together. Definitely, the Township wants to have a say on the school board. It's not fair. Here we are sending all those children and we don't have a voice in the board's decisions. This is just ridiculous!

Mrs. Ann Krasnoff, 210 Hamilton Avenue, housewife: Yes, I am. Starting a new school in the Township means taking a chance on getting a faculty together. You're not sure of the quality until it's been tested. It is difficult to start a new school system from scratch, especially when it means hiring all new teachers at one time.

A. H. O'Bryant, 18 Charlton Street, teacher, Rutgers University: Yes, very much. Though I live in the Borough, I pay over $600 a year to keep my son in a school where he is happiest—Community Park. Another thing, every bit of common sense indicates this from a standpoint of economy and good management. We're not two contiguous communities; in reality we're one and we should be governed as such.

Mrs. Anne Holran, Kendall Park, housewife: Yes, I am. Township residents do not have the sources for tax revenue to the extent the Borough has. I feel this is unfair to the residents in the Township. The Township does provide quality education but it comes out of the taxpayers' pocket, whereas all the merchants and ratables are in the Borough. I think by merging it would be fairer to the taxpayer.

Vito Gioia, Lawrenceville, meat cutter for Davidson's Market: I don't live in Princeton but I have a strong opinion on the subject. No, I don't think they should merge because I am against any form of government getting bigger and this includes school systems. When you remain small, there is a greater chance for individual attention and you get more for your tax dollar. I'm strictly against bigness all long the line.

Mrs. William Schowalter, 102 Spence Street, housewife: Yes, I think we would have a better school system. We would have better schools for all types of students—both good and average would benefit. It would mean better facilities, better equipment, better teachers and a better physical plant.

Mrs. Arthur Sasthmary, 41 University Place, housewife: I'm not too well informed on it, but, in general, I am in favor of unification. But I think we would have to proceed very slowly. Who would be in charge of the new system? There is always a danger that a less competent person might take over. To my mind, the first thing we should do is settle the question of political consolidation between the Borough and Township. Once that is accomplished, then you could sit down and discuss the merit of merging the schools.

ART
In Princeton

THE WORLD OF OPTICS

At McCarter Theatre. With eyes still watering, we take pen in hand to tell you about "Optical Art," the third show to be sponsored by the Princeton Art Association and put on in McCarter Theatre with the fine cooperation of the McCarter organization.

"Op Art" has hit New York John Canaday notes its sudden vogue in the New York Times as "The Stalk of the Town," reviewing the current Sidney Janis Gallery show called "Abstract Trompe L'Oeil—Five Painters Who Lead and Mislead The Eye." This exhibition precedes the Museum of Modern Art's blessing on the subject with "The Responsive Eye" which opens next month.

It's the "dernier cri in New York and as such has been chosen as timely for Princeton through March 8. The new thing is not wholly new.

Knowledge of the strange behavior of line and color in conjunction, juxtaposition and opposition can be traced far back in to the past to Leonardo, the Pompeii frescoes. . Trompe l'oeil is an new term. Op Art is the physics of optics and, at the moment a very fashionable subject.

The optical problems explored at McCarter are carried out in varying degrees of motion and color. The result is strenuous eye exercise on the part of the viewer and a reaffirmation of the lessons about primary colors and linear effects learned in grade school.

Illusion, Disillusion. The clearest example is Darby Bannard's "Oil Painting on Canvas." In two tones, yellow and orange against white, with two sets of forms only, the artist has made us see first one section advance, the other recede. The next second, visa versa.

John Goodyear asks you to study the relationship between forms which are solid and forms which one can see through "in his "Orange and Yellow Moire" or his "Green and Blue Moire," which, incidentally looked very red, black and white, but maybe that's the point!. These Moires are two piece constructions, half freehanging, parts of which seem to move (the moires), don't move and do move.

Everything Moves. Mon Levinson's three dimensional "Black Moving Planes, X," is made of paper, acetate and plexiglass. His "Planes" look almost staid beside the blatant colors of their neighbors, but all the time they are moving and making you feel as if you were watching amoebic forms moving under thick ice. You can almost hear the crackle.

Henry Pearson works in studied concentration on convolutions and labyrinthian circles in an all-over pattern on his canvas. Reginald Neal uses lithograph, ink and collage on canvas for "Red and Black Vertical." This and "Three Verticals on Horizontals" have a marked computer look and are self-explanatory.

I See Spots. Tsai Wen-Ying takes violent color. He says, "In my exploration and experience with three-dimensional layers of colors, I hope to create new and spontaneous relationships between my painting and the audience at the moment of viewing, and by means of interplay of colors to create kinetic moments of great intensity."

This he does. The moment after our "kinetic moment of intensity," we saw green polka dots dancing over the features of the audience of his "Plastic Superimposed Painting."

In mentioning Jerry Foyster, we must apologize for our optical aberration last week when we mis-read his name in the release and printed it as Forsythe. Jerry Foyster does whole hog in "Op" with his "American Series" in this show.

We defy anyone to gaze at it very long. His "optical shock treatment" creates vertigo in the most stalwart. Unadulterated red and blue dots move back and forth, blurring and focusing and "sometimes even crashing with each other."

Well leave you with some of the comments overheard at the opening of the show, and later you may be moved to make some of your own.

"Just like those campaign buttons!"

"Yes, and the favors in the Cracker Jack boxes."

"It's new in New York, so it's got to be new in Princeton."

"I could live with that one forever."

"This one reads well." (Both "Numbers" by Harold Pearson)

"I hate to punish my retinas this way."

"Perfectly fascinating!"

"Ouch."

"Well, my grandmother thought Cezanne was crazy."

"I like it a lot, but it's not Art."

"It interests me a whole lot, how about you?"

It takes a strong constitution to viz Op, but see if you get vertigo or a big charge out of it. It goes both ways. Whether or not you like it, or think it's related to Art, you're bound to have a reaction.

New Gallery Opens. The opening of The Crown Gallery at 106 East Trenton Avenue, Morrisville, in Bucks County, has been announced by the director, Vincent Ceglia. The policy of the gallery will be to feature monthly one-man shows of professional artists and to have on display the work of other artists, sculptors and craftsmen.

The first showing will be of paintings by Sigmund Koslow who lives in Pineville, N. J. He is the painting instructor at the Hunterdon County Art Center in Clinton and at the Morris County Art Center in Morristown.

Gallery hours are from 10 to 6 on weekdays, 9 to 5 on Saturdays and 1 to 5 on Sundays.

RESEARCH HEADQUARTERS, Gallup & Robinson, Inc., will erect this three-story office building in Princeton Research Park. Burton F. Weisbecker is the architect.

BUSINESS In Princeton

G&R PLANS BUILDING

In Research Park. Construction of a new headquarters for Gallup & Robinson, Inc., is expected to begin this spring in Princeton Research Park. The three-story office building for the advertising and market research firm will adjoin the colonial La Valse house on a five-acre plot at 575 Ewing Street.

Citing the need for additional space to carry on increased research and services, President L. E. Purvis added, "We have been split between two buildings for a long time."

Architect Burton F. Weisbecker of 10 Nassau Street designed the colonial-style structure, which will be of stucco with brick center panels and trim. Wood & Tower of 90 Nassau Street are consultants; S.T. Peterson and Co., Inc., general contractors, and additional sitework will be handled by Castore and Co. Target date for completion is early fall.

The new building, containing about 16,000 square feet, will bring about a more efficient layout for the data processing departments and provide G&R with facilities it does not have at present. These include extensive monitoring facilities for photographing television commercials as they appear on the air and provision for a photographic dark room. Building plans also include a small lunch room.

PETTIT FIRM TO OPEN

At 4 Nassau. With an open house this Thursday from 4 to 7 and another on Friday between 10 and 3, Karl D. Pettit will take his formal place on the Nassau Street scene.

The long-time Princeton resident has opened a branch of Karl D. Pettit & Co., investment counsel, and a branch of Knickerbocker Shares, Inc., the mutual fund of which Mr. Pettit is a director. Both firms have New York offices at 20 Exchange Place.

Knickerbocker Shares, Inc. combines The Knickerbocker Fund, a flexible, balanced fund creating a balanced investment program, with Knickerbocker Growth Fund, Inc., an investment program selected for growth possibilities.

Directors of the first are Mr. Pettit, William D. Pettit, Peter V.K. Funk, H. Rogers Benjamin Jr., Paul R. Berryman, Vincent Coleman, Hardy Jones and Thomas H. Josten. Directors of the latter are Mr. Pettit, William D. Pettit, H. Rogers Benjamin Jr., Walter W. Frese, C.B. Jolliffe and John W. Landis.

The investment counseling firm of Karl Pettit & Co., was founded in 1932 to provide investment counsel for individuals, estates, corporations and institutions. Karl, William, Estelle and Walter Pettit are partners. Peter V.K. Funk, Roland F. Betts, William N. Schill, R. Dana Chase, E.M. Kaelin and J.L. Musson are in charge of research and management.

Among the clients of Karl D. Pettit & Co., are colleges, churches, industrial pension funds and financial and banking organizations.

GROUND IS BROKEN

For Nassau Print. Construction of the new printing plant and warehouse for the Princeton University Press began Thursday with groundbreaking at the 10-acre site in Lawrence Township's Princessville Research Park.

The new building will be named in honor of Henry A. Laughlin, a trustee of the press from 1940 to 1962 and board president from 1951 until 1962. A member of the Class of 1914, Mr. Laughlin has retired as president and board chairman of Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston publishers.

Plans call for moving the present printing plant on William Street to the new building this summer. The new plant will include automatic typesetting machines and new offset equipment.

The publishing offices will remain on William Street, in the building constructed in 1911 as a gift from Charles Scribner, son of the founder of Charles Scribner & Sons. One of the founders of the press, he served as president until his death in 1930.

Architects for the plant and warehouse are J. Robert Carr, Associates of Richmond, Va. Site preparation will be done by the S.T. Peterson Company of Monmouth County; C.W. Blakeslee & Sons of New Haven, Conn., is preparing the pre-stress work. The general contract has not been let.

The Princeton University Press, a separate organization but "incorporated in the interests of Princeton University," has published more than 1,500 books since 1912. In recent years it has added new lines at the rate of some 60 a year.

ARCHITECT HONORED

For Research. Robert M. Engelbrecht, 145 Mansgrove Road, was guest of honor at a luncheon given Monday at the Nassau Inn by Holt, Reinhardt, Winston, publisher of "New Homes Guide."

Mr. Engelbrecht's firm is nationally known for its research into the nature and quality of building materials. In addition, the architect is known as an advocate of the contemporary approach in residential architecture. Since 1956, he has been designer, or director of design, for about 50 prototype and research homes in 18 states.

Mr. Engelbrecht designed the Century-21 Living Space Module Research House for the Seattle World's Fair, and the Home Manufacturer's Association 1964 "House of the Year."

Dow Jones Welcomes 3,000

Upwards of 3,000 persons toured the new Dow Jones office building on Route 1 Saturday in response to its "open house" invitation.

The 80,000-square foot structure in South Brunswick Township will serve as research and administration headquarters for the firm, which operates the ticker service bearing its name and publishes three nationally-circulated newspapers, including the Wall Street Journal. A smaller building (some 22,000 square feet) will eventually be equipped as an experimental laboratory in advanced printing and communications techniques.

Bernard Kilgore, Dow Jones president, and Mrs. Kilgore headed the reception line which greeted the visitors on Saturday. The building will eventually house some 250 Dow Jones employees, with the firm's editorial, advertising and executive offices remaining in New York.

A Dis-Service to Princeton

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am legally a Borough resident and therefore at first glance it might appear presumptious for me to speak publicly on a matter which is legally of concern only to the Township. But in the process of living here, there is no real distinction between the two municipalities.

We all drive on the same streets, shop in the same stores, go to the same theaters. We use the same water and sewer systems, the same parks and playgrounds, the same library, the same Hospital (and, hopefully, soon the same schools and the same swimming pools).

We read the same papers and listen to the same radio. We all say merely "Princeton" when a stranger asks us where we live.

Some of us (as I do) pay taxes to both municipalities and are therefore very conscious of the governmental boundaries, but many of us do not know exactly where the dividing lines run. In short, we are really "one town" and most of us are happy and proud to live here.

Under these circumstances, I see no reason why I should not speak out, and urge others to speak out, against the proposal that a major postal distributing operation be placed on North Harrison Street. The fact that an action of some 15 years ago allowed the shocking eye-sore called the Princeton Shopping Center to be built where it is, is not a sound basis for another variance which would allow the so-called post office to encroach further in an area zoned essentially for homes and research.

Such a variance would bring a further irreparable scar to an area of modest homes. It would bring daily another 120 employees and their cars to the area. It would entail a great deal of truck traffic during at least 15 hours daily. It would increase all traffic on already heavily used North Harrison.

Princeton's postal problems really stem from the receivers and senders of bulk mail and mail in bulk — from its large institutions and research organizations, not from householders or the person mailing a letter or buying stamps as a part of the day's errands. Let these institutions and organizations drop off and pick up their mail outside the limited confines of a residential, and beautiful community.

Let the commercial-trucking-type postal operations be placed in a commercial trucking-type site. Route U. S. 1 near Penn's Neck Circle is such a place, for example. The Chamber of Commerce does no service to the town it professes to serve by pressuring for the desecration of part of it.

One Buildog, No Tigers

Possibly because the issue of whether Columbia or Princeton is academically superior is somewhat secondary in importance to other issues confronting the world today, the debate that has been taking place in TOWN TOPICS' Mailbox for the past two weeks has died aborning.

No Princetonian saw fit to reply to last week's challenge from Abraham Seldner of 188 Grover Avenue that "Columbia is one of the world's great universities." Princeton merely a top - flight school." One Yaleman sent in a note, somewhat derogatory in tone to both, but preferred not to sign his name. Anonymous letters, regrettably less of content, are unacceptable for publication.

ROAD GAMES TO END

This Weekend for Tigers. Secure in the knowledge that the decisive games in the 1965 Ivy basketball race will be played in Dillon Gymnasium, Princeton's quintet takes off for northern New England this weekend on its final road trip of the season. Despite the pressures of playing away from home as the final shot at the title nears, the Tigers are expected to repeat their one-sided triumphs over Dartmouth and Harvard without undue difficulty.

They'll be at Hanover Friday night and travel to Cambridge Saturday, where memories of last year's 88-82 upset will lurk until they take charge of the Crimson on its own court. It is difficult to believe, however, that last weekend's 76-55 triumph over Harvard and the 103-64 pasting of the floundering Indians will not be repeated — probably by somewhat lesser but nonetheless adequate margins.

Upsets of the other two teams with title thoughts in mind are also unlikely. Penn takes the same swing that Princeton does, playing Harvard Friday and Dartmouth Saturday and its balance is unlikely to fail the Red and Blue against opponents which it defeated by 20 points in the Palestra.

League-leading Cornell entertains Brown and Yale at Ithaca, but that pair of games will end the Red's season at home. The tough trip to Philadelphia and Princeton, on which the eventual outcome of the 1965 race hangs, is on tap the following weekend.

Tigers Take Charge Early. Identical leads of 19 points at the half (39-20 against Harvard and 42-23 against Dartmouth) allowed Princeton to coast home in both contests last week. On both occasions, the Tigers were helped by the fact that junior Bob Haarlow started fast, joining Bill Bradley in double figures before the intermission despite the fact that he did not play the full 20 minutes on either evening.

It was essential that Princeton's scoring achieve a greater degree of balance against mediocre teams on its own court if the Tigers are to make a strong title defense, and the 3,000 fans who jammed the gym to capacity both nights saw just that occur. Although used sparingly as Bill van Breda Kolff substituted freely, Haarlow was in double figures on both nights with a 13.5 average. Don Rodenbach had 15 against Harvard, sophomore Gary Walters threw in 14 against Dartmouth and was joined by senior Ken Shank.

The 6-6 center had the kind of night that any bench-warmer dreams of, whether or not his points directly affect the outcome of the game. A gangling left-hander who is so thin that he might be hard to find if he stood sideways, Shank connected for all of his 14 points during a stretch of just over four minutes at the end of the game.

He hit on six of seven field attempts, added two flawless free throws to complete a pair of three-point plays and accounted for the basket that took the Tigers over 100 for the first time this season. The crowd, including the "Ken Shank Fan Club" waving a banner in the stands, loved every minute of it. Just before the game ended, Bradley was a total loser in an effort to keep a broad grin off his face as he returned to the game so that Shank might draw the crowd's applause as he left.

The resultant ovation all but broke up the contest.

Bradley Fully Recovered. Although his leg is heavily protected to prevent recurrence of the severe muscle bruise he suffered at New Haven, Bradley gave full assurance Saturday night that he can move in any direction as quickly as he wants.

Satisfied with 20 points against Harvard, his season's low, as he continued to pass off most of the evening, he took only 14 shots and finished with a 7-6-20 entry in the book. He had only a dozen in the first half against Dartmouth, but then cut loose with a performance that will become part of the Bradley legend.

Before leaving action at the 18-minute mark, he tossed in 24 points, adding countless assists as the Tigers worked one steal and fast - break after another. The All-American finished with 36 points, a 67% average from the floor and was credited with 18 rebounds.

Princeton's attack against Dartmouth reached such a rapid pace during the second half that the Tigers connected on 70% of their shots, a fabulous team average. During one stretch of three minutes and 19 seconds, they produced 16 points — a pace which, if maintained during the course of an entire game, would top 200.

The fact remains, however, that Cornell and Columbia scored even more points against Dartmouth than did Princeton, so that last week's go-round proves little save that the Indians are at the depth of a prolonged slump. Defensively, however, the Tigers engineered a variety of steals with a half and even a three-quarter court press, and if they can maintain that sort of pressure on opponents in the climatic games ahead, it will be a tremendous asset.

SKATERS TO FACE YALE

Twice in Four Days, Back-to-back meetings with Yale are next on the schedule for Princeton's hockey team, which will close out six weeks of play without a victory if it does not win one of its two games with the Elis. The Tigers' last triumph was a 3-2 upset of Rensselaer Polytech on January 13 and seven straight defeats have followed to peg the team's record at 3-14.

The most recent took place at Cambridge on Saturday, where a sub-par Harvard sextet led all the way to chalk up its first Ivy victory. It was a 6-2 final, Gordon Gladman and Bert Bruser scoring for the losers. Princeton actually outshot the Crimson, 31 to 26, but Harvard did a better job of controlling the puck.

The Orange and Black will travel to New Haven for an 8 p.m. game Saturday in Ingalls Rink. Yale will be here next Wednesday, with the face-off also set for 8 o'clock.

The Elis have an attack that can be explosive, featuring an all-sophomore first line from their unbeaten freshman team of last winter. They are, however, some what below average strength on defense, although goalie Mike Hanson is one of the best in the league. To date, Yale holds a pair of somewhat unexpected victories over Cornell but has lost twice to the top teams in the circuit, Brown and Dartmouth.

PHS TOPS PREP SCHOOLS To Climb to 9-9. A pair of victories over Peddie and Lawrenceville School last week left the Princeton High basketball team even with nine wins and nine losses. Three contests remain.

A strong Hamilton quintet will invade Princeton Friday evening for an 8 p.m. contest, and Asbury Park will come here Tuesday afternoon for a game at 3:45. The Little Tigers will end their season next Friday, at home, against Franklin.

Princeton's season will not conclude with the Franklin tilt, however. PHS is one of six Mercer County schools which will compete in the 47th annual NJSIAA Basketball Tournament. It joins Trenton, Hamilton, and Steinert in the Central Jersey Group 4 section in which 19 teams will be vying for the vacant title won last year by Hillside.

Pairings in the first round pit Princeton against Rahway. The date and the site of the contest will be announced shortly. Should PHS defeat Rahway, it will meet the winner of the Westfield-Cranford match.

Competition in the tournament will begin March 1. The tourney will reach its climax on March 26-27 when the championship games will be played in Atlantic City Convention Hall where they have been for the past three years. In all, 167 teams are entered in the different groupings.

Other opening round hostilities involving Princeton area schools are Trenton vs. Asbury Park, Hamilton vs. Edison Township, and Steinert vs. Thomas Jefferson. The county schools in the tourney are Central High School in Pennington and Cathedral.

Leitch Hits Career High. On Friday, PHS traveled to Hightstown and proceeded to thrash the hapless Old Blue and Gold, 89 to 44. Colin Leitch led the rout with 29 points on 14 field goals and one free throw. It was Colin's career high.

Joining Leitch in the double figure column were his scoring confreres, Pete Heiberger with 15 and Wilbur Hines with 13. In all, nine Little Tigers figured in the scoring, including Anthony Adams whose nine points represented his season's high.

Two days earlier, Lawrenceville became the Blue and White's eighth victim, although this time the score was much closer. Dave Van Ness was the difference between victory and defeat when he sank five consecutive foul shots on one-and-one situations in the closing two minutes. The final score was Princeton 60, the visiting Cardes, 60.

Lawrenceville led by two at the half and by one at the end of the third period. But with three minutes remaining Leitch broke a 58-all tie with a free throw. From here, Van Ness took over. All eight of the latter's points came via the free throw line where PHS enjoyed a 26-10 margin.

Leitch and Hines were high for Princeton with 19 points apiece. Heiberger chipped in with 13.

PHS WINS JAYCEE MEET

Second Year Straight. The annual Lawrence Jaycee Mercer County Indoor Track Meet, held for the second time Saturday at Lawrenceville's Lawrence Field House, was won for the second time by Princeton High School. The Little Tigers combined three first-place finishes and numerous seconds and thirds to outdistance second-place Ewing, 37 to 28.

Princeton's Vince Boccanfuso was named the top performer in the field events. Vince leaped 20 feet, ½-inch to capture the broad jump event and finished third in the high jump.

Andy Kulley won the shot put with a 56' 9¾" effort. Teammate Carl DeCavalcante finished second. The quartet of Alan Vomacka, Bruce Tippi, Bill Gary and Carl Giese triumphed in the medley relay. Their time was 3 39.5.

Bill Aiken, named the outstanding meet runner last winter, was hampered this year by a knee injury he received playing football. Bill finished third in both of his specialties, the low and high hurdles. Also off last year's form was sprinter Larry Mueller who dropped from first to third in the 60-yard dash.

Princeton's ace miler, Jay Gallagher, had to settle for second place when Hamilton's Tom Wilson was a surprise victor. Running in his first meet, the Hamilton junior lowered last year's mark by eight and one-half seconds. His time was 4:33.5.

PHS also won the junior high portion of the meet. Pacing the junior Little Tigers were Matt Alexander who won the 440 in 57 seconds and Pete Michael whose time of 2:15.1 earned him a first place in the 880.

ETS HOLDS LEAD

In Industrial Basketball. American Cyanamid stayed close behind Educational Testing in the YMCA Research and Industrial Basketball League last week, defeating Western Electric, 57 to 38. ETS saw its record raised to 10-2 by virtue of a forfeit over RCA-Astro, which failed to field a team.

Ray Cevera and Bob Montgomery posted respective totals of 15 and 14 points to pace the Cyanamid victory. The runners-up also recorded a 68-50 triumph over Opinion Research, Montgomery tossing in 18 points. ORC paced by John Fitzpatrick with 26, trailed by only four at the half but was outscored, 33 to 18, after the intermission.

The standings:

HUN SCHOOL ON TOP

With 9-2 Record. Hun School this week was on the threshold of its first championship in the four-year-old Penn-Jersey League. The worst the Red and Black can do is tie, but if Wednesday's finale against Moorestown came its way, the title would, too.

In addition, the team is in the enviable position of sitting back and watching its closest pursuers knock each other out of contention. Both Bryn Athyn and George School, the only two who have any chance of tying Hun, must still play each other twice. Should they split, Hun could lose its finale and still back into the championship.

Next Saturday, on the 27th, Hun will enter the first round of the New Jersey Private School Tournament. It will oppose Newark Academy, a team it lost to last year in the opening round by three points. At the Peddie gymnasium, "We're glad to be able to get another crack at them," said Hun coach Bob Simpson.

Hun scrambled to the top of the heap last week by winning its fourth and fifth league contests in a row, while the others faltered. Its two wins could not have been more dissimiliar.

Saturday, Hun walloped home team Perkiomen, 88-59, all five of its starters hitting double figures. It was the biggest total run up by Hun this year and the largest in the three years Simpson has been at the helm. Last Wednesday, the Red and Black eked out a 59-57 overtime win against a visiting Pennington squad.

Against Perkiomen, co-captains Mike Leon and Scott Page combined for 43 points, Leon hitting for 25, Mike Miller, Scott Anderson and Howard Levine followed with 15, 10, and 11.

Levine Is Hero. Sophomore Howard Levine, playing in his third game, was the big hero in the Pennington thriller. Levine sent the game into overtime with a clutch basket and then won it with another two-pointer with three seconds left to play. It was the second time this season he had saved Hun from defeat by sending a game into overtime. Hun won both extended contests.

In commenting on the game later, Simpson said they had a play set up in the final seconds designed to get the ball to Page, Hun's most reliable scorer. "I let out a gasp," recalled Simpson, "when the ball went to Levine instead but he grabbed it and made the shot so there wasn't much I could say after that."

WORKSHOP SET

For Tennis Teachers. Group teaching of tennis fundamentals will be emphasized at the Tennis Teachers' Workshop to be held from 7 to 9 p.m., March 1, 15 and 22, in the Princeton High School gymnasium. The Mercer County Citizens Tennis Advisory Committee has invited all physical education teacher, camp counselors and recreation teachers to attend.

Tennis coaches and physical education teachers involved in the planning are John Conroy, Princeton University; Dan Haggerty, Trenton; Norman Van Arsdalen and Joseph Diefenbach, Princeton Township Schools; William Hume, Princeton High School, and Mrs. Lewis S. Kraft, Princeton Community Tennis Program.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Stella Jascott, secretary, Mercer County Park Commission, County Court House, Trenton. The workshops are free. Registrants are asked to state name, address, phone, school or organization, and the seasions they plan to attend.

Harris to Coach UNH

Warren Harris, a member of the varsity football coaching staff at Princeton for the past two years, has accepted appointment as head coach of the University of New Hampshire at Durham.

A specialist on defense here, he is credited with having much to do with the stinginess of the unbeaten Tigers last fall. They allowed only 5.9 points per game and tied a 30-year old Princeton record when they shut out four consecutive opponents in mid-season.

Harris came here from Pennsylvania in December, 1961, as an assistant in both football and basketball. No decision on his successor will be reached until next month at the earliest, since Dick Colman is currently in Florida.

BOWLING NOTES

Two Leagues Still Tied. The Elks and Nassau Liquors are tied for first place in the Nassau League with 24 points apiece, while a deadlock exists in the Tri-County Firemen's League between Mercer No. 3 and Kingston, both with 18.

In the Nassau League, the Reformers and Bear Brook are tied for third place with 22, followed by Tiger Garage, 18; Grover Lumber and Thorne's, 17 apiece; Nassau Del, First Aid and Cooper & Schafer, all with 16. Bob Sculerati's 617 was the top series, while his 236 was also the best single game. Other high scores were Frank Cawley, 215; Nick Sculerati, 212; Wilton Rose and Joe Baldino, both 201.

Cory S. Kammler

A friend was telling us about a little noticed fact about Washington's birthday. He said, "You know, George Washington wasn't actually born on February 22nd." When we looked at him as though he were a poor mixed up kid, he said, "Now, just hold your horses, and I'll prove my point. Washington was born at Bridge's Creek, Va., in the year 1732, when both England and the American colonies were on the Julian Calendar and in that calendar Washington was born on February 11th. In 1752, 20 years after Washington's birthday, England and her colonies adopted the Gregorian Calendar, and dropped eleven days from the month of September. Therefore this caused Washington's birthday to fall on February 22nd, and that's a fact!" Well, we looked it up, and sure enough, he's right. So you see, sometimes the most outlandish statement will turn out to be true, and becomes an excretion to prove the rule that most such statements are just someone's fancy but it kindly. In our business we try to serve you as Washington served our country in his lifetime. Kammler Buick-Fontiac Co., Route 206 opp. Princeton Airport, 921-2222.

MUSIC In Princeton

MIXED RECEPTION
For Cleveland Orchestra.

On Monday night, the Cleveland Orchestra, under the direction of George Szell, presented a program of symphonic music to a Series 1 audience that filled McCarter Theatre to capacity. The concert included the Symphony NO. 31 in D Major ("Hornsignal") by Haydn; a new work entitled "Cinq Metaboles" for orchestra by Henri Dutilleux; and the Symphony NO. 6 in F Major, Opus 68, ("Pastoral") by Beethoven.

With the glorious sounds of Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony still ringing in my ears, it is hard to criticize the first half of the program, yet there were some thoughts that came to mind during the playing of Haydn's "Hornsignal" and the Dutilleaux score that deserve evaluation and comment. For one thing, this is surely not one of Haydn's better symphonies, nor is it really a symphony.

It is more in the style of a Divertimento or Serenade, and may have been originally intended for an outdoor divertisement. The music is not without Haydn's great gifts of charm, elegance and wit, but it runs too long for its content, suffering the most, during the fourth movement; a structurely weak excercise in variation form, merely to display the solo capabilities of the orchestra first-chair men.

This reviewer remembers the Alexander Schneider performance of this same work on a Series II concert last season. His impression of it then was more favorable, but the performance seemed to have more bounce, quicker tempi and a lighter feeling. Mr. Szell favored the more precise and somewhat pedantic approach to Haydn, and gave it a rather slow paced, heavy-handed reading.

The contemporary work by Dutilleux is in five sections with subtitles adjoining the tempo markings. They are: "Incantatory", "Linear", "Obsessive," "Torpid" and "Flamboyant."

The music may well reflect the composer's design but it is hardly relevant when evaluating its essence, merits or importance as a work of art. The piece is a dazzling work of orchestral craftmanship.

There are many considerable moving effects, most notably in the section, marked "Linear". Here the string sonorities were quite captivating. The music seems to run through a variety of stylistic idioms. A definite "French" feeling exists and there are suggestions of Honegger and Frank Martin possibly in the strictly vertical sounding sonorities.

The piece, however, lacks substance. What material is contains tends more toward the "novel" rather than the structural or purely "musical."

In other words, is is a highly effective piece of superficial music. The orchestra, led by Mr. Szell's firm direction, gave a stunning performance, but the work seemed to give out almost all of its secrets on first hearing.

After the intermission came a performance of Beethoven's "Pastoral" that more than made up for the deficiencies of the first half of the concert. It is hard to envision a more noble reading of this brilliant masterpiece.

Though the first movement was taken at a slightly slower tempo than this writer is used to hearing, he was nevertheless impressed by Mr. Szell's conception of the total work. This was the first time one could clearly hear the two-against three in the development section of the first movement. The tempo of the second movement was well paced, and the music did not seem endless as it has in slower-paced readings. The meticulous precision of the conductor's technique was evident in the Scherzo and the control in dynamic shading and balance in the fourth and fifth movements was impeccable.

Listening to such exalting music, it is not difficult to recapture something of the feelings of the young Berlioz or Wagner upon hearing their first Beethoven symphonies Then the music was still relatively new, and the tremendous genius of Beethoven's inventiveness and development of idea upon idea must have created a sensational impression on these younger composers.

But today, the impression is no different. After more than 150 years since its completion, the "Pastoral" still holds listeners spellbound by its majesty and glory, and we can only be grateful that interpreters of the caliber of George Szell and the Cleveland Orchestra are reliving this warm and humane experience with us.

News Of The CHURCHES

CHURCH RENAMED

St. Andrew's." The New Brunswick Presbytery has approved the request of Second Presbyterian Church to change its name to "St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church."

The change takes place at the 11 a.m. service this Sunday, at which time the refurbished sanctuary will be rededicated. Assisting the Rev. P. Hugh Lifflton (see Man of the Week) will be the only living past ministers of the church, the Rev. Dr. William L. Tucker, pastor emeritus, and the Rev. David L. Crawford.

Members of the sessions of First and Witherspoon Presbyterian Churches will attend as representatives of the Princeton Presbyterian Commission. The program of special music includes Bach's St. Anne Fugue as the organ prelude. A fellowship coffee hour follows the service.

A family night gathering will be held at 7:30 p.m., with a special program at 8.

According to the Rev. Mr. Lifflton, St. Andrew's is a far more meaningful name than Second Church, calling to mind the disciple who introduced Peter to Christ. Also, the name honors the large number of Scottish members active in the early years of the church. St. Andrew is the patron saint of Scotland.

St. Andrew's, a landmark at Nassau and Chambers Streets since 1868, was founded in 1847 by members of First Presbyterian Church. Early services were held in Mercer Hall, then at the corner of Nassau and Tulane Streets, later in a building opposite the Nassau Street School.

The change in name has been discussed for more than 15 years, according to the session clerk, Hugh Donley. "As a matter of fact, when I first came to the church in 1943 or 1944, it was considered then, but no direct action was taken."

The motion for the change passed the session unanimously. Mr. Donley said, "I feel was confirmed at the January congregational meeting. I am sure that by and large the congregation is as in favor of it as the session," he added.

"I think it's fine," he added, "because of our Scottish background for one thing." To which another session member, Mrs. Rose Cortelyou, adds, "Andrew was the one who brought Peter to Christ. We hope to do this at the church... it will be kind of a fresh start."

SPRING INSTITUTE SET

By Presbyterians. The Spring Institute, sponsored by the Princeton Presbyterian Churches and the Princeton Presbyterian Commission, begins this week. Six courses are offered. Meetings will be held for six weeks in the homes of church members.

Friday evening courses are "The Reshaping of Christian Belief," led by the Rev. Dr. Daniel Jay Migliore of Princeton Seminary, and "The Christian Meaning of Sex," with Ralph C. Chandler as discussion leader.

The "Science and Religion" discussions, led by the Rev. Charles Partee, a teaching fellow in theology at Princeton Seminary, will constitute a four-week course on Tuesdays.

"Race and Religion The Church's Role in the Civil Rights Movement" is scheduled for Thursdays, with Harold W. Waxwood, principal of the Witherspoon School, and John H. Strange of the department of politics at Princeton as discussion leaders.

Also on Thursdays are "Understanding the Lands of the Bible," led by the Rev. Charles T. Fritsch, Old Testament professor at Princeton Seminary, and "Archaeology's Impact on Understanding the Bible," with Phillip C. Hammond, Princeton Seminary archaeologist, as instructor.

BULLETIN NOTES

Religion & Race. PRS ROLLS, 84 TO 61

Over Highland Park. Playing its final away game of the season, Princeton High on Tuesday, coasted to an easy 84-61 triumph at Highland Park. It was the third win in a row for the Little Tigers.

Once again, as they have all season, Princeton's big three of Colin Leitch, Wilbur Hines and Captain Pete Hiesberger accounted for the bulk of the scoring. Leitch contributed a game high 24 points to give him 53 in his last two games; Heiberger and Hines added 20 and 16.

The outcome was decided early. After the Blue and White had raced to a 20-8 first quarter lead, it continued to bomb away until it owned an overwhelming 48-19 bulge at the half. Only in the final eight minutes of play against Princeton's reserves, did Highland Park outscore the visitors.

The victory was Princeton's tenth against nine setbacks. The loss was Highland Park's seventh. It has won eleven.

REAL ESTATE

EARLY 19TH CENTURY TOWN HOUSE

(residential—income property)

Here is a case of charm plus practicality that could offer a fine solution to the housing problems of a variety of would-be Princeton residents. Particularly we think of people who would like to augment retirement income or young marrieds whose taste in houses may be beyond reach of their pocketbooks.

Located on a pleasant Western section residential street, this appealing old white clapboard has been enhanced by tasteful renovation. The first floor includes entrance hall, living room with fireplace, wee "den," modern kitchen and a really lovely step-down dining room with high ceilings, built-in shelves and doors out to the flagstone terrace. The 2nd floor has 2 bedrooms (one with fireplace), 2 baths, and a highly desirable 3 room apartment with separate entrance. On the 3rd floor is an eminently rentable 2 room suite. In keeping with the house is a quite enchanting garden.

WE THINK

the most complete inventory in the area of five-bedroom homes. They range in price from $21,200 to $35,000.

THIS TWO STORY is on a wooded lot in Pennington. The first floor has a living room with fireplace, playroom, dining room, good-sized kitchen, and pine-panelled den. There are five-bedrooms and two baths on the second floor and a huge storage attic. The two-car garage and the accessibility to schools make this home ideal for the large family. The air conditioner, attic fan and bunk beds are included in the price of $28,900

HERE'S ANOTHER

WHERE . . .

yesterday's room and charm blend beautifully with today's conveniences. It's 100 years old and a White Brick Victorian. The first floor has two living rooms (one with fireplace), dining room w/china closet, spacious knotty pine kitchen w/breakfast room, dishwasher, utility room and bath. The second floor has four bedrooms (the master has a black marble fireplace) and one bath. There are three more bedrooms on the third floor plus storage space. The hot-air heating system includes central air conditioning. $29,500

WE'VE

our "Sold" Sign for this one because in addition to five bedrooms and an established community, it boasts these features: a completely new kitchen, detached screened-in patio, beautifully maintained lot, and a price of only $21,300. Our name on the "Sold" sign . . . your name on the mailbox.

IF

both in bedrooms and price are less than the above homes, we have a number of fine homes to suit you in the area:

We call this three-bedroom ranch "Marine Boots" . . . It's not that much spit-and-polish. The large living room w/picture window and the dining room have wall-to-wall carpeting. Delightful kitchen with ash cabinets, wall oven, counter range, exhaust fan and double sink. There's a full basement and two-car garage. The lot is 3/4 of an acre. Come early! $21,000 in heart but small in wallet, this Hopewell split-level has everything! 4 bedrooms, 1½ baths, recreation room, laundry and two-car garage. $2,400 will assume the mortgage and payments including taxes will be $150 per month. The price? $18,900

. . . AND IF

Located on a country road in Lawrence Township, the house is completely air-conditioned, with a large living room, a study (the same fireplace serves both), a separate dining room, 3 bedrooms and 2 baths. Outdoors, the landscaping looks professional . . . and is! $47,500

ON THE LAKE . . . where you will have a grandstand seat forever more for every regatta that the Tigers win (or lose!). Nestled amid beautiful shade trees, the long, low one-story brick house, built on a slope, has a large living room with fireplace, separate dining room, a dream of a kitchen, 3 bedrooms and 2 baths. Living room, dining room and master bedroom open onto a porch, with a gorgeous view of the Lake, and below there are a large recreation room, an office & space for another bedroom & bath.
